INTRODUCTION

This is the third summary of the game fish laws published by the Department of Commerce and is intended for the convenience of State game and fish authorities, anglers, and others, for use in connection with the enforcement of the Federal law regulating interstate transportation of largemouth and smallmouth black bass. No attempt is made to include all the laws and regulations relating to game fish, but it is desired to furnish a convenient synopsis of the laws covering those subjects which are most important to anglers. It would be impossible to include the various regulations promulgated from time to time by the fish and game commissions which are authorized to do so; however, an effort has been made to bring the subject matter up to date.

For additional information or changes it is best to communicate directly with the proper State fish and game officials, a list of whom will be found on the last page. The Department is in no way responsible for errors which may occur in this publication as changes may have been made in the laws without its knowledge.

BLACK BASS AND ANGLERS DIVISION

The Federal black bass law, administered by this Division, is being enforced by 2 regular field officers, 2 or 3 part-time inspectors, and 110 deputy black bass law inspectors who are regularly employed State fish and game wardens. The demands on the Bureau for information on "how, when, and where" to fish grew so rapidly in connection with the black bass law enforcement that there was created in 1934 an anglers' service without increase in personnel. This work is growing rapidly. The files of the Division contain all the game fish laws of the States and the Provinces of Canada, pollution laws, catalogs of the fishing-tackle manufacturers, and other data of interest and value to the angler. The information contained therein is at the service of the angling public.

When specific information is requested on fishing, the Bureau endeavors to furnish whatever data it has on the subject, but generally the State fish and game departments are in a better position to supply detailed information upon species, methods, best seasons, places to fish, etc.

Local sources of information are always up to date as to angling in any particular location, including best weather conditions, most successful baits, and suitable tackle. Among such sources are the conservation agencies, the offices of the American Automobile Association, passenger agents of the railroads, local boards of trade, and chambers of commerce, such conservation organizations as the Izaak Walton League chapters, and similar sportsmen's groups. The local sporting goods stores in any town and the local game and fish wardens can generally supply helpful information on local fishing conditions.

The records of the Bureau of Fisheries cover the stocking from its own hatcheries only and are not complete as to fish planted from State hatcheries, but most of the State fish and game commissions publish lists of waters they have stocked and will supply such information to those requesting it.

FEDERAL BLACK BASS LAW

The law in full is as follows:

[PUBLIC—No. 495—71ST CONGRESS]

[S. 941]

AN ACT to amend the act entitled "An act to regulate interstate transportation of black bass, and for other purposes", approved May 20, 1926.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the act entitled "An Act to regulate the interstate transportation of black bass, and for other purposes", approved May 20, 1926 (U. S. C., Sup. III, title 16, secs. 851–856), is amended to read as follows:

"That when used in this act the word 'person' includes company, partnership, corporation, association, and common carrier.

"SEC. 2. It shall be unlawful for any person to deliver or knowingly receive for transportation, or knowingly to transport by any means whatsoever, from any State, Territory, or the District of Columbia, to or through any other State, Territory, or the District of Columbia, or to or through any foreign country, any largemouth black bass (Micropterus salmoides) or any smallmouth black bass (Micropterus dolomieu), if (1) such transportation is contrary to the law of the State, Territory, or the District of Columbia from which such black bass is or is to be transported, or (2) such black bass has been either caught, killed, taken, sold, purchased, possessed, or transported, at any time, contrary to the law of the State, Territory, or the District of Columbia in which it was caught, killed, taken, sold, purchased, or possessed, or from which it was transported; and no person shall knowingly purchase or receive any such black bass which has been transported in violation of the provisions of this act; nor shall any person receiving any shipment of black bass transported in interstate commerce make any false record or render a false account of the contents of such shipment.

"SEC. 3. Any package or container containing such black bass transported or delivered for transportation in interstate commerce, except any shipment covered by section 9, shall be clearly and conspicuously marked on the outside thereof with the name 'Black Bass', an accurate statement of the number of such fish contained therein, and the names and addresses of the shipper and consignee.

"SEC. 4. All such black bass transported into any State, Territory, or the District of Columbia for use, consumption, sale, or storage therein, shall upon arrival in such State, Territory, or the District of Columbia be subject to the operation and effect of the laws of such State, Territory, or the District of Columbia to the same extent and in the same manner as though such fish had been produced in such State, Territory, or the District of Columbia, and shall not be exempt therefrom by reason of being introduced therein in original packages or otherwise.

"SEC. 5. The Secretary of Commerce is authorized (1) to make such expenditures, including expenditures for personal services at the seat of government and elsewhere, and for cooperation with local, State, and Federal authorities, including the issuance of publications, and necessary investigations, as may be necessary to execute the functions imposed upon him by this act and as may be provided for by Congress from time to time; and (2) to make such regulations as he deems necessary to carry out the purposes of this act. Any person violating any such regulation shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this act.

"SEC. 6. (a) Any employee of the Department of Commerce authorized by the Secretary of Commerce to enforce the provisions of this act (1) shall have power, without warrant, to arrest any person committing in the presence of such employee a violation of this act or any regulation made in pursuance of this act, and to take such person immediately for examination or trial before an officer or court of competent jurisdiction; (2) shall have power to execute any warrant or other process issued by an officer or court of competent jurisdiction to enforce the provisions of this act or regulations made in pursuance thereof; and (3) shall have authority, with a search warrant issued by an officer or court of competent jurisdiction, to make search in accordance with the terms of such warrant. Any judge of a court established under the laws of the United States, or any United States commissioner may, within his respective jurisdiction, upon proper oath or affirmation showing probable cause, issue warrants in all such cases.

"(b) All fish delivered for transportation or which have been transported, purchased, received, or which are being transported, in violation of this act or any regulations made pursuant thereto, shall, when found by such employee or by any marshal or deputy marshal, be summarily seized by him and placed in the custody of such persons as the Secretary of Commerce shall by regulations prescribe, and shall, as a part of the penalty and in addition to any fine or imprisonment imposed under section 7 of this act, be forfeited by such court to the United States upon conviction of the offender under this act, or upon judgment of the court that the same were transported, delivered, purchased, or received in violation of this act or regulations made pursuant thereto.

"SEC. 7. In addition to any forfeiture herein provided, any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding $200, or imprisonment for a term of not more than 3 months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

"SEC. 8. Nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent the several States and Territories from making or enforcing laws or regulations not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, or from making or enforcing laws or regulations which shall give further protection to largemouth and smallmouth black bass.

"SEC. 9. Nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent the shipment in interstate commerce of live fish and eggs for breeding or stocking purposes."

Approved July 2, 1930.

Briefly, this law prohibits the shipment of largemouth and smallmouth black bass from one State to another that have been taken, sold, or transported contrary to State law. In other words, a violation of the Federal statute is predicated on a violation of some existing State law protecting black bass; and, in addition, there must be an interstate transportation before aid can be invoked under the Federal law. There is nothing in the law that prevents the States from giving the black bass further protection if they so desire.

A very important feature is the section which requires all interstate shipments of fish which contain bass, to be conspicuously marked "Black bass", together with an accurate statement of the number of black bass contained and the names and addresses of both consignor and consignee.

Black bass illegally transported in violation of the Federal law, or any regulation promulgated by the Secretary of Commerce, are subject to seizure by any authorized employee of the Department or by United States marshals and deputy marshals. Fish so seized may be disposed of by order of a United States court upon conviction of the offender, or, if in the judgment of the court the bass were transported, delivered, sold, purchased, or received in violation of the law. Violators are liable to punishment by a fine not exceeding $200, or imprisonment for not more than 3 months, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Persons should familiarize themselves with both State and Federal laws before reporting cases in order that they might ascertain whether or not a violation of the law actually occurred. If a violation has occurred, it should be reported to the United States Bureau of Fisheries, Washington, D. C., if it concerns the Federal statute, otherwise to the State authorities, a list of whom will be found on the last page of this publication.

AIMS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

For several years the Bureau of Fisheries has been organizing the black-bass work in cooperation with State authorities and endeavoring to build up State laws and improve conditions affecting the welfare of the black bass. In the actual enforcement of the Federal law, the Bureau of Fisheries desires, and is receiving, the hearty cooperation of the States. This has made possible the appointment of over 100 regularly employed State fish protectors, or wardens, as deputy black-bass law inspectors who are authorized by the Secretary of Commerce to administer the law.

In order to obtain the greatest benefit from the Federal law, the States should so frame their laws as to afford the greatest protection to the black bass.

The transportation of black bass out of the State should be made unlawful, except that a person holding an angler's license should be permitted to take out or send out a reasonable number during the open season for private use.

Protection cannot be adequate without a closed season covering at least the spawning season. The habits of black bass in guarding the nest from predators are well known, and unless all fishing is prohibited during the breeding period, the bass may be expected to decrease steadily. Biologists have studied carefully the spawning habits of black bass and are in a position to recommend the proper closed seasons that will entirely include the nesting period, which varies according to locality, climate, and water conditions. For the best results the closed period should extend beyond the actual spawning period.

A limit to the number of fish that may be taken by one angler in a calendar day is essential. The number should be governed somewhat by the scarcity or plentifulness of the fish, but it should be sufficiently small to discourage the fish hog, and not be just a number fishermen will strive to attain and consider the day a total loss unless the maximum limit is secured. The lowest daily limit now in force in any State is 5, and the maximum 30, with several States having no daily limit; 10 bass a day appears to be the popular choice in a large number of States.

A size limit should be established, one that is sufficiently large to allow the fish to spawn at least once before capture. It is believed that a 10-inch limit will satisfy this requirement, and certainly a black bass smaller than 10 inches from tip to tip is too small for sport and not of sufficient size for food. The smallest limit now on the statute books is 6 inches, the largest 12 inches. Ten inches in length is the limit in 23 States. Uniformity in limits is essential for satisfactory enforcement, especially in adjacent States.

It is the purpose of anglers and conservation organizations interested in the welfare of the black bass to prohibit eventually the sale of this game fish in all of the States, for it is believed that they are worth more to a State for recreational purposes than in commerce; by some their value for sport is estimated at $2 or more a pound, while bringing only a small sum per pound when sold by the fishermen or in the markets. Interstate transportation is closely connected with the sale and, excepting in the case of the licensed angler, is for commercial purposes. Its prohibition is essential in obtaining an observance and enforcement of State laws prohibiting sale.

PROGRESS IN BLACK BASS LEGISLATION

Progress was made in black bass legislation in 1934–35. There is now no State where there are not some restrictions on the sale of black bass. Thirty-eight States and the District of Columbia have laws absolutely prohibiting the sale of black bass at all times, regardless of where taken. In Maryland, three cities—Baltimore, Cumberland, and Hagerstown—have prohibited the sale of black bass in their markets at all times. In addition there are six States which prohibit the sale of black bass taken within the State and, at the same time, permit the sale of such fish when caught outside the State and brought in. In these States many bass are illegally caught and sold as bass brought in from other States. Such a law also encourages the violator in the State from which the fish are transported. Two States prohibit the sale of black bass at certain times of the year; in each instance the closed period covers, or is during, the spawning season. Two other States permit the sale of bass taken only from certain waters. Tennessee prohibits the sale of bass excepting from Reelfoot Lake, where it is lawful for a commercial fisherman to sell not more than 12 a day, 11 inches or over, taken with hook and line during the open season. The conservation authorities in the States where black bass are not adequately protected are favorable toward improved laws and, in some instances, have already made progress toward obtaining protective legislation.

Part-time licenses.—For some time the Bureau has been advocating the adoption by the various States of a part-time or tourist's nonresident angler's license, believing such a license, good for a short period and costing about the same as a resident angler's license, would result in fewer violations and greater revenue. Twenty-one States have adopted such a law since the establishment of the Black Bass Division, while seven had adopted it previously.

Arizona raised the class A general hunting and fishing license fee to $3.50 and its resident fishing license fee to $1.75. Delaware raised its nonresident anglers' license fee from $5 to $7.50, but permits nonresident women accompanying the angler to fish without charge; it also adopted a part-time resident license for 6 days at $3.25. Florida reduced its nonresident license fee from $10.25 to $5 and provided for a 3-day tourist license costing $1.50. Indiana adopted a 10-day part-time nonresident anglers' license costing $1. Maine raised the cost of the resident license from $0.65 to $1.15. Tennessee provided for a special tourist's license on Reelfoot Lake for 5 days costing $1; Montana adopted a part-time license. 15 days, for $1.50; and Pennsylvania, one for 3 days for $1.60. Nevada now issues a license without cost to those over 60.

Sale.—In 1934 Massachusetts passed a law prohibiting the sale of black bass at all times regardless of where taken. Delaware, Indiana, Alabama, and Florida passed similar laws in 1935. The passage of the no-sale law in Florida was the culmination of a fight that has been waged for many years by sportsmen, Florida fish and game associations, national organizations, and the United States Bureau of Fisheries.

At present the sale of black bass is prohibited at all times regardless of where taken in the District of Columbia and the following States: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Texas, Virginia, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia (unlawful to serve or purchase bass obtained from any source), and Wisconsin.

The sale of black bass is prohibited if taken within the State in Colorado, Missouri, New Mexico, South Dakota, Utah, and Wyoming.

South Carolina permits the sale of bass taken within the State from July 1 to March 31, but if the bass are taken without the State they may be sold at all times.

Tennessee permits sales if the fish are taken from certain waters.

Georgia permits the sale of bass from April 15 to May 31, inclusive, and Maryland from April 1 to July 31, inclusive, except in Baltimore City, Cumberland, and Hagerstown, where sale is forbidden at all times by city ordinances.

Limits.—In 1935 Tennessee increased its size limit on Reelfoot Lake to 11 inches and established a daily sale limit of 12 bass per day during open season. In 1934 Kentucky reduced the daily limit on black bass and trout from 15 each to 10 each, and increased the size limit on bass from 10 inches to 11 inches. Mississippi and West Virginia increased the size limit on black bass from 8 inches to 10 inches; Washington reduced the daily limit from 30 game fish or not more than 20 pounds to 20 game fish or not more than 10 pounds; Pennsylvania reduced its trout daily limit from 20 to 15 in 1935. Wyoming reduced its daily limit from 15 pounds or 30 fish to 15 pounds or 20 fish; New Mexico reduced the size limit on black bass from 10 inches to 9 inches.

Closed seasons.—Kansas, in 1935, by regulation, provided a closed season on largemouth and smallmouth bass, black and white crappie from April 15 to May 15. This leaves only seven States where there is now no State-wide closed season on black bass during at least a part of the spawning period. These States are Arizona, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, and South Carolina. Delaware opened its season on black bass on June 25, a month later than formerly, giving added protection to the spawning fish.

Miscellaneous.—Tennessee, Florida, Maryland, New Hampshire, and South Carolina reorganized their fish and game departments to some extent. Maryland changed from a 1- to a 3-man commission. Rhode Island abolished the Commission of Inland Fisheries and created in its place a Department of Agriculture and Conservation. Changes in commission personnel occurred in 14 States caused by death or removal.

In Arkansas, Kansas, Utah, and Montana the fish and game commissions were given broader powers in the promulgation of regulations affecting seasons, limits, etc. West Virginia made a small appropriation out of the general funds for game and fish work.

SUMMARY OF LAWS RELATING TO SEASONS, LICENSES, LIMITS, INTERSTATE TRANSPORTATION, SALE, PROHIBITED METHODS, PROPAGATION, AND POLLUTION [2]

The dates of open seasons for game fish shown under the various States and Provinces are the times when they may be taken legally; that is, the dates given are both included in the open season. Anglers are advised to obtain the full text of the fishing laws of the States they intend to visit. (See list of officials on the last page.)

ALASKA

The regulations of the Department of Commerce for the protection of the fisheries of Alaska do not contain any prohibitions with respect to angling. In order, however, to protect a fish-cultural project authorized by the 1931 session of the Territorial Legislature providing for a program of stocking the lakes and streams with desirable species of game fish in the regions adjacent to the Alaska Railroad, Richardson Highway, and Steese Highway, a Territorial law was enacted making it unlawful to take or attempt to take such fish for a period of 3 years after liberation. Aside from this one restriction the angler in Alaska is confronted with no regulations. There are no bag limits, no closed seasons, no size limits, and no license is required.

STATE LAWS

ALABAMA

Open seasons

All games fish (hook and line) except in two counties. Consult the commissioner	Dates inclusive No closed season.

Licenses.—Nonresident, in fresh waters, $5; trip fishing for 7 consecutive days, $2; issued by judges of probate court and game and fish commissioner. No resident anglers license.

Limits.—Black bass (fresh-water trout), 11 inches, 10 daily or in possession; bream, rock bass, 4½ inches; crappie, perch, 8 inches; jack salmon, 12 inches; daily limit on bream, rock bass, and crappie, 15 each, but a total of all game fish of 25.

Transportation.—One day's limit may be transported for personal use.

Sale.—Prohibited at all times regardless of where taken.

Prohibited methods.—Unlawful to take bass, green trout, bream, or goggle-eye, except by hook and line, troll, fly, spinner, or substitute therefor. Seines, gill nets, trammel nets, or any fish net or other device other than hook and line, gig, spear, or trot line prohibited above tidewater, except on privately owned ponds or lakes, and seines not over 12 by 4 feet used in taking minnows for bait. The use of poison, or fish berries, or explosives in taking fish is prohibited. Unlawful to take fish by nets or other such devices in any of the creeks, rivers, streams, or estuaries emptying into any salt waters within 10 miles from point where they empty into or connect with such salt waters.

Propagation and pollution.—Board of health is empowered to stop pollution of water supplies.

Miscellaneous.—In Alabama the black bass is called fresh-water trout. Game fish are defined as black bass, bream, crappie, perch, all members of the sunfish family, walleyed pike, jack salmon or pickerel, white perch, and all species of fresh-water trout, pickerel, or perch. Size limits are measured from tip of nose to fork of tail.

ARIZONA

Open seasons	Dates inclusive
Trout, all species	June 1–Sept. 30.

Transportation.—Transportation and exportation of fish lawfully salable are permitted.

A person may transport during the open season within the State or from a point within to a point without, the bag limit of 1 day in 1 day of nonsalable fish when accompanying the same, or the taker may transport them by common carrier, other than parcel post, with a shipping permit attached. Nonsalable fish under this paragraph, include trout, black bass, muskallunge, and lake trout, other than lake trout taken in Lake Erie, Lake Ontario, and Chaumont.

The taker may transport in any manner except by parcel post, from a point without the State to a point within, nonsalable fish, lawfully taken and lawfully exported during the open season in New York State or he may carry into the State with him, nonsalable fish lawfully taken and lawfully exported from without the State during the closed season for such fish, under an importation license issued by the conservation department. Nonsalable fish, under this paragraph, would include trout, black bass, and muskallunge.

Only holders of New York State fishing licenses are entitled to shipping permits. Permits are limited to six per calendar year, and are not transferable.

These provisions do not apply to transportation of bass for propagation.

Sale.—The sale of black bass, brook trout, brown trout, rainbow trout, steelhead, and redthroat is prohibited. Whitefish and yellow perch may be sold during open season; lake trout caught from Lake Erie, Lake Ontario, and outside of the State may be sold. Striped bass taken by angling or nets may be sold and possessed in any number at any time.

Prohibited methods.—Fish, except migratory food fish, shall only be taken by angling. Use of explosives in taking fish is prohibited. Unlawful to use carp or goldfish for bait.

Propagation and pollution.—Trout raised in private hatcheries may be sold if properly tagged under regulations prescribed by the conservation department. No dyestuffs, tar, or other deleterious substances shall be thrown or allowed to run into any waters in quantities injurious to fish.

Miscellaneous.—Additional protection has been granted crappie and other fish by regulation. Consult the commissioner.

NORTH CAROLINA

[Inland fishing waters]

Open seasons [5]	Dates inclusive

EXCEPTION.—Smallmouth bass in mountain counties only	June 11–Aug. 31.
Brook and rainbow trout	Apr. 15–Sept. 1.
Muskellunge (salmon)	Apr. 15–Oct. 1.

(The fisheries commission board is authorized to regulate the seasons in which the various species of fish may be taken from inland waters. Local fishing seasons have been established under this power; also, certain waters have been closed to fishing. For further information address the Department of Conservation and Development at Raleigh.)

Licenses.—Nonresident, annual, $5.10; one day, $1.10; resident State, $2.10; resident, county, $1.10. County licenses not required except in counties where county commissioners have authorized their levy; in such counties a resident can purchase a daily fishing permit for $0.60. No license required to fish in Atlantic Ocean. The assistant director is authorized to collect angler's license fee from inland waters and certain commercial waters. Licenses are issued by director, wardens, and authorized agents.

Limits.—Daily limits: Smallmouth bass, 8; largemouth bass, 8; brook trout, 20; rainbow trout, 15; blue bream, 25; red bream, 25; robin, 25; rock, 8; crappie, 25; goggle-eye, 25; red fin, 25; white perch, 25. Not more than 25 trout in aggregate of all species, or more than 75 in aggregate of all species of game fish from inland waters.

Largemouth bass, 12 inches; smallmouth bass, 10 inches; brook trout, 6 inches; rainbow trout, 8 inches; blue and red bream, 6 inches; robin, 5 inches; rock, 12 inches; crappie, 6 inches, goggle-eye, 6 inches; red fin, 8 inches; white perch, 6 inches.

Transportation.—Unlawful to transport bass, trout, bream, or crappie during the closed season.

Sale.—Unlawful to sell or offer for sale at any time any largemouth or smallmouth black bass taken from within or without the State.

Unlawful to sell brook trout, rainbow trout, or smallmouth bass in the State.

Unlawful to buy, sell, or ship any largemouth or smallmouth black bass, brook trout, rainbow trout, bream, crappie, or Chinquapin perch during the closed season.

Prohibited methods.—Game fish may be taken from inland waters only with hook and line, rod and reel, or by casting (certain exceptions). Use of more than two poles prohibited in inland waters.

Propagation and pollution.—Discharge into waters of substances deleterious to fish is prohibited. Board of health has jurisdiction over sewage and water-supply systems. Inland fisheries regulations apply to private fishing ponds, except owners may take fish by nets or trap, but not more than 10 pounds of game fish a day.

The State stream sanitation and conservation commission, formed of heads of the board of health and the department of conservation and development and their chief engineer, is in charge of matters of stream pollution.

A special act of the general assembly authorizes the propagation of game fish, under a license fee of $5, for commercial purposes.

[5] Certain days during the closed season in 1934 were opened to fishing by regulations promulgated by the commission.

Miscellaneous.—Rule 1 of commission designates those waters which are commercial fishing waters, mostly coastal. All others are inland. The commission has power to promulgate regulations and has closed certain waters to fishing, and there are local exceptions to the State laws; for these consult the director.
